Joint Statement of the President of the People's Republic of China and the President of the Russian Federation on strengthening global strategic stability

We, the President of People's Republic of China and the President of the Russian Federation, attaching great importance to the maintenance of international and regional strategic balance and stability, make the following statement:

We are concerned by the current increase in negative factors affecting global strategic stability around the world. The danger of this trend is, first and foremost, that individual countries and military-political alliances seek to gain a decisive advantage in the military or military-technology fields, in order to be able, without the slightest hindrance, to serve their own interests in international affairs through the threat or use of force. Blatantly disregarding the fundamental security principle of undiminished security for all countries, they attempt to sacrifice the security of other countries in favour of their own. Such policies lead to uncontrolled growth in military power, shaking the global system of strategic stability and running counter to the concept of comprehensive and universal disarmament under effective international supervision.

Some countries and alliances, seeking to acquire military dominance, stubbornly refuse to discuss the reduction and limitation of the weapons that ensure their own decisive military advantage, which is the main cause of the undermining of global strategic balance and stability.

Developments in the field of anti-missile systems are of particular concern. The non-constructive behaviour of unilaterally developing and deploying strategic missile defence systems all over the world has a negative impact on international and regional strategic balance, stability and security, and also undermines the basis for the formulation and adoption of ways to deal with the proliferation of missiles and missile technology using multilateral political — diplomatic methods.

It is worth noting that outside forces often use conjectural pretexts for the deployment of the "Aegis Ashore" system in Europe and the Terminal High Altitude Area Defence (THAAD) system in the Asia-Pacific region, as well as the planned deployment of that system in Northeast Asia. These deployments are totally unrelated to the real challenges and threats being faced in the field of missile proliferation, are clearly inconsistent with their stated objectives, and seriously damage the national strategic security interests of countries in the region, including China and Russia. China and Russia strongly oppose them.

The "global real-time combat systems" and other long-range precision strike weapons developed by some countries could seriously undermine strategic balance and stability and trigger a new arms race.

The threats of the weaponization of outer space and the transformation of outer space into an area of military confrontation are on the rise. This trend will undermine strategic stability, and additionally will threaten international security. In this context, the start of a negotiating process to draft a legally binding international agreement to ensure the non-weaponization of outer space, based on the Sino-Russian draft treaty on the prevention of the deployment of weapons in outer space and the threat or use of force against outer space objects (an updated draft of which was submitted to the Geneva Conference on Disarmament on 10 June 2014), is of great practical significance. Promoting an international initiative and political obligation on the no-first-deployment of weapons in outer space is also of great importance. This is consistent with the objectives of the draft treaty on the prevention of the deployment of weapons in outer space and the threat or use of force against outer space objects jointly submitted by China and Russia, and is conducive to achieving the goal of preventing the weaponization of outer space.

Arms control is an important means of strengthening international security and stability. Any measures in this field should be guided by the basic principles of the final document of the first special session of the United Nations General Assembly devoted to disarmament, signed in 1978. These principles are of practical significance, especially because disarmament and arms control should be fair and balanced, and should be conducive to strengthening the security of each country.

The rising risk of non-State actors acquiring chemical and biological weapons to carry out terrorist acts and violent extremist activities is of great concern. The repeated use of chemical weapons by "Islamic State" militants in Syria and Iraq exemplifies such events. One way to deal with this threat is to improve the foundations of the relevant international law. Therefore, the drafting at the Conference on Disarmament in Geneva of a convention to prevent acts of chemical and biological terrorism has important practical significance.

The international community is accustomed to viewing "strategic stability" as a purely military concept in the field of nuclear weapons. This fails to reflect the breadth and multi-faceted nature of contemporary strategic issues. To achieve the goal of defending peace and security, the concept should be viewed from a wider and broader perspective in which strategic stability is taken as a condition of international relations, with the following main points:

- In the political field, all countries and groups of countries should abide by the purposes and principles of international law and the Charter of the United Nations with regard to the use of military force and coercive measures; respect the legitimate interests of all countries and peoples in the settlement of international and regional hotspot issues; and oppose interference in the political life of other countries.

- In the military field, all countries should maintain the their military capabilities at the minimum level required to ensure their national security; should refrain from taking any actions such as building up their militaries or establishing and expanding military-political alliances that might be seen by other members of the international community as a threat to their national security and force them to take countermeasures to restore the balance that had been undermined; and should resolve their differences through positive and constructive dialogue, thereby enhancing mutual trust and cooperation.

China and Russia call on all members of the international community to use these principles, aimed at consolidating world peace, security and stability, as the basis for action, and are willing to strengthen dialogue, coopcration and exchanges with the international community on that basis.

Identical letters dated 9 July 2016 from the Permanent Representative of the Syrian Arab Republic addressed to the Secretary-General and the President of the Security Council

On instructions from my Government, I should like to apprise you of the bloody terrorist attacks on the city of Aleppo that have continued to take place since 6 July 2016.

Intent on carrying out the destructive and hateful policies sponsored by certain States and regimes — foremost among them the regimes of Saudi Arabia, Qatar and Turkey — armed terrorist groups funded and supported by foreign entities have continued to indiscriminately rain down various kinds of explosive shells, rockets and gas cylinder missiles (also known as "hell cannons") on the residential neighbourhoods of the city of Aleppo, ignoring the sanctity of the Eid al-Fitr holiday and flagrantly violating the truce agreement and the cessation of hostilities agreement. According to the information provided by the Humaymim base, there have been 762 violations of those agreements since the end of February. Indeed, armed terrorist groups have recently begun to use new types of weapons and ammunition, including high-precision explosive rockets, high-explosive shells and sophisticated rocket launchers and cluster bombs. This suggests that certain States, such as Turkey and Saudi Arabia, have been supplying the groups with sophisticated weapons with the blessing of Western States.

Forty civilians were killed in Aleppo over the three-day Eid holiday; 17 of them were children, 15 were women and seven were men. 170 people were injured, of whom 46 were children, 46 were women and 78 were men (see attached list of names of the dead). The terrorist attacks also caused substantial material damage to public and private property and public infrastructure and services.

On Friday, 8 July, armed terrorist groups rained down dozens of explosive shells and rockets on the Furqan and Fayd neighbourhoods of Aleppo. The highest death toll was reported at the university residences, which house approximately 3,700 displaced persons: the armed terrorist groups fired explosive rockets and shells, which landed on children who had been playing on swings during the Eid holiday. That attack by the armed terrorist groups also struck the area near the municipal stadium in downtown Aleppo.

Please recycle

On Thursday 7 July 2016, armed terrorist groups indiscriminately fired rockets at the Sayf al-Dawlah neighbourhood. The Sabil, Nile, Aziziyah and Mushariqah neighbourhoods of Aleppo were indiscriminately shelled.

The ongoing cowardly acts of terrorism perpetrated by what some like to call "moderate opposition groups", such as the so-called Nusrah Front, the Army of Conquest, the Army of Islam and other terrorist groups affiliated with the so-called Islamic State of Iraq and the Levant and Al-Qaida, attest to the hypocrisy of States that claim to be fighting terrorism. Those acts clearly demonstrate that France, Britain and the United States of America — permanent members of the Security Council — are not serious about combating terrorism, and that they apply double standards in the war on terror. That practice must be stopped immediately.

Regrettably, such cowardly criminal acts, which target innocent civilians in their homes, streets, markets and workplaces, take place under the protection of the governments and regimes in power in Saudi Arabia, Qatar, Turkey, France, the United Kingdom and the United States of America. Those States and regimes — in particular, Turkey, Saudi Arabia, Jordan and Israel — continue to shelter the terrorist groups and send them fighters, funds, weapons, ammunition and materiel. The fact of the matter is that the fire of terrorism will always spread and burn the place where it was lit, as terrorism is a form of criminality that transcends religion, nation and citizenship.

Some Security Council members continue to fail to perform their duty to suppress terrorism and combat and prosecute those armed terrorist groups that are protected by certain States. The Security Council continues to refuse to take immediate deterrent and punitive action against States and regimes that sponsor, support and fund terrorism. That situation sends an unequivocal message to the criminal terrorist perpetrators, accomplices and plotters. The message is that they should persist in committing massacres and acts of terrorism against the Syrian people, acts that threaten not only Syrian and regional but also international peace and security. The United States of America, France, Britain and Ukraine refuse to have the Army of Islam and Ahrar al-Sham organizations added to the Security Council's list of terrorist groups and entities. This only confirms that they are not serious about combating terrorism.

The Government of the Syrian Arab Republic affirms that these terrorist massacres and crimes will not deter it from continuing to fulfil its duty to combat terrorism and strive to bring about a political solution to the Syrian crisis among Syrians, through an intra-Syrian dialogue and under Syrian leadership, leading to the elimination of terrorism. It will not be deterred from rebuilding what was destroyed by the terrorists and their partners, financial backers and supporters and restoring security and stability for the Syrian people.

The Government of the Syrian Arab Republic calls on the Security Council and the Secretary-General to condemn these terrorist crimes immediately and forcefully. It also calls on the Security Council to fulfil its responsibility to maintain international peace and security by taking preventive and punitive measures immediately in respect of those regimes and States that support and fund terrorism — in particular the Riyadh, Ankara and Doha regimes. The Council must prevent those States from continuing to fund terrorism and undermining international security and peace, and compel them to implement fully the relevant Security Council resolutions, including resolutions 2170 (2014), 2178 (2014), 2199 (2015) and 2253 (2015).

I should be grateful if you would have the present letter and its annex issued as a document of the Security Council.

Protracted conflicts in the GUAM area and their implications for international peace, security and development

The situation in the occupied territories of Azerbaijan

Letter dated 8 July 2016 from the Permanent Representative of Azerbaijan to the United Nations addressed to the Secretary-General

Upon instructions from my Government, I have the honour to convey herewith the records of the violations of the ceasefire by the Republic of Armenia in April 2016 (see annex).* During the month in question, Armenia violated the ceasefire regime 4,274 times.

Starting in the early morning of 2 April 2016, the armed forces of Armenia increased fierce fighting from their positions in the occupied territories, subjecting the armed forces of Azerbaijan along the front line and the adjacent densely populated areas to intensive fire with heavy artillery and large-calibre weapons. As a result of Armenia's attacks and subsequent hostilities, 34 towns and villages in Azerbaijan were shelled.

As a result, 23 servicemen of the armed forces of the Republic of Azerbaijan were wounded and 6 servicemen were killed.

The continuous occupation of a large portion of the territory of the Republic of Azerbaijan by the armed forces of Armenia remains the main obstacle to the settlement of the conflict and the only source of the escalation of the situation on the front line and of occurrences of hostilities and casualties.

The sooner the Republic of Armenia withdraws its troops from the occupied territories of the Republic of Azerbaijan, the sooner peace and stability can be restored in the region.

I should be grateful if you would have the present letter and its annex circulated as a document of the General Assembly, under agenda items 35 and 40, and of the Security Council.
